"The Planet Panels team, and what the company had to offer, completely fascinated me. They got the job done fast and to a very high degree of quality. Usually builders can offer you any two of three things—reasonable cost, high quality, quick delivery—and only two of those things. Planet Panels delivered on all three. At Foundation Capital we are goal driven to get the best returns for our clients, and Planet Panels took our goal and made it their goal in our infill project. We've worked with other construction companies and none of them have come close to what Planet Panels was able to do for us: They took our property from bare foundation to locked-up house in 3 days. The entire construction project from start to finish took weeks instead of months, and it was done with very high quality and no budget overruns or "surprises." Planet Panels is fast, and it was especially nice for an infill project because there was very little disturbance to the neighbourhood during construction; the neighbours loved it. And besides being extremely fast and cost competitive, Planet Panels delivered a house that is more than twice as energy efficient as one built with traditional methods. The team was awesome to work with, the product fantastic, and we plan to use Planet Panels for all our infill construction from here on."
